RoughDrawn (Art site)

The aim of this project is to create a site that serves as an engaging portfolio of my own art. Example pieces will consist of drawings, digital paintings, various design samples (usually logos or the like). A version of this site may one day be incorporated into a permanent site.

I want to create a minimal presentation but I am going to try to make it snappy and modern in the sense of HTML5 features/tags (among other necessary coding); having just a static slide show of images is not very interesting. The site will be image-heavy but will have an easy flow to it. Creating a pleasant user experience, especially navigation, is one of the most important goals.
